Questions/Comments:

Needing to know the status of a patent, classified concept is and when I am able to go to work on the concept. The life of the planet is at stake, Thus it is critical that it gets placed on the market and that I am immediately made aware of what is going on. I need a phone number of the World Patent marketing so as to call and be in contact with them to find out what is going on as it is extremely critical to know.

Questions/Comments:

I had went online and submitted a invention for a Total Eye Mask idea. World Patent Marketing contacted me via phone and said they would assist in getting a patent and market my idea. First installment in the amount of $995 was sent for the initial Analysis for the idea. I was told from the company that my idea was worthy of being Patent and was marketable and that they would help in the process and handle all necessary steps into making my idea a Huge Success and profitable. I paid them $11,000 on 2/24/16 and sent the remaining due in the amount of $11,000 on 3/17/16. Over the next few months I continually called them asking for updates on the patent which was originally being submitted by one person then I contacted them again since I had not heard anything and another person contacted me Christopher Pilling and I was told the previous person handling patent was no longer handling the patent that he was. There was a press release 10/1/16 then I was told they were working on a Blog. After several months I contacted company again and then I was sent a link for Blog. Since then I hadn't heard anything after several emails and call attempts which I had left messages. Since I hadn't heard anything I drove from Castle Hayne, NC to Miami FL to visit the company where I found out that the FTC had halted the company and froze assets and there wasn't anyone in the office space it was completely deserted, the office next to World Patent Marketing told me that the company packed up and left a couple of weeks ago with no forwarding address, this was on 3/24/17. That's when I went on line and read the article about the FTC shutting them down. I called FTC and was advised to file a complaint the FTC and the Florida State Protection Agency the FTC gave me case# 1:17-CV-20848. I called the US Patent Office and my Total Eye Mask patent had been filed but was still pending , they gave me the phone# for Christopher Pilling whom was suppose to be handling the patent and I called and the person whom answered said he was not Christopher Pilling. I have emailed Mr Pilling also for a reply. I was contacted by Christopher King on 12/27/2016 and he told me that the marketing team at World Patent wanted to know if I had the money to start manufacturing my idea that this would speed up my invention, I explained that I had invested all I had into my idea at this time, I was told that was no problem that they would continue to market my idea to make my idea a success. I haven't heard a word back and I have emailed and called. I feel that World Patent Marketing has taken advantage of me and I am concerned that the money I have invested for what they promised has been lost. I want to know if there are steps further than this complaint that I need to pursue to try to get a refund for services that they did not complete.

Finally, I asked for a full refund within 21 days, but, unfortunately, they refused to answer me back on email, and phone. Scott Cooper is the mastermind and a crook. He is CEO and Creative director of World Patent Marketing. Originally, they asked for $13,195. But I gave them only $5,195. They tricked me into thinking that they were going to help me with promoting my invention and then introducing it to the market, but it was all fake. They scammed me and Stole $5,195 from me, and I would like to have it all back. With your help.

Hi ,

My name is John Dell'Olio and I'm having a problem with World Patent Marketing. I've signed an agreement with WPM to file patents and market my invention. It's almost two years and the utility patent filing has been abandoned, (I have a copy of the letter from the USPO concerning the abandonment), and the expected licensing agreements have not materialized. I've been working with Scott Cooper the CEO who doesn't give me any satisfaction. I have about 45 e-mails to prove this. I've given them $25,000 of a $35,000 aside from the initial fee of $1995 and haven't sent the balance because I asked for my money back about a dozen times for lack of services and all I get are empty promises. I look forward to hearing from you regarding this unamerican act against a 75 year old veteran. Thanking you in advance, John

New York When I first contacted World Patent Marketing they said all these things they will do for me. It would only take few months and it has been going on since August. I paid them sometime around august a few different credit cards. I can get the exact dates if needed. They never followed through with all these promises. Then changed what they were willing to do. We were left out with everything unfinished. Jerry Shapiro even called last week trying to get more money right before they vanished. I have the names of all the people that scammed me. It has been an emotional roller coaster. Besides the money I put on my cards and took out my little bit of stock the emotional stress for 8 months has been more of an emotional problem than even the money. I want to figure out how to get to the 3 people that promised me the world. Even on of their sub-contractors called me and told me they never paid him for all the good work he did. Please help me get my money back and put these people where they belong. with appreciation and gratitude Sherry Berjeron

Subject: Attention Amaura: Potential Violations of 817.06 by World Patent Marketing, Scott J. Cooper and Ronald L. Mallett

Dear Amaura:

The below report is being sent to you for Marshall Barnes, whom you discussed this with last week -

Of Special Note: A PDF version of this email document is attached, which may make it easier to share and maintain the formatting as intended.

The following report is for review by any and all agencies of the State of Florida, with authority and or per view, over matters dealing with the use of misleading information in advertising and public statements designed to commercially acquire funds from the general public for a product and or cause that is demonstrably false, demonstrably contrived to deceive, and demonstrably the product of a conspiracy to commit those acts.

To expedite the understanding of the possible violations this report contains, you can advance down to Exhibit #5-#7. Exhibits #1-#4 provide the evidence for a pattern of behavior that then manifests in full as possible violations in Exhibits #5-#7. Thus the evidence for deliberate and premeditated violations of 817.06.

For the purposes of transparency, the following report contains data acquired and aggregated by a competitor to the principals accused in the following report but not in the area in which any questions are raised concerning violations of the law. Specifically, there is no competition over the ability to commercially acquire funds from the general public in the manner that is the sole focus of the principals in question. Furthermore, 100% of the allegations against the principals involved are based on their own statements, issued in person in public, in press interviews, in advertisements, in press releases and in promotional videos. All sources for the information and statements will be identified by links to the actual documentation itself, so that there is no question as to the validity of the allegations.

Furthermore, it is to be understood that this report is not a tool to gain a competitive edge on the part of the competition of the principals cited herein, but to avoid the collateral damage that is certain to be suffered by those who were taken in by the false and misleading advertising engaged in by those principals who in fact, have no other business model but pretending to have intellectual properties and innovative technologies that are demonstrably, nonexistent, and impossible for them to achieve.

In addition, it should be noted that Exhibits #1 through #4 are not actually potential violations of the law, in and of themselves, but establish a pattern of behavior that is part and parcel of Exhibits #5, #6 and #7 which may be considered direct violations of the law. In other words, the intent to violate the law is soundly established by the blatant utilization of falsehoods in those first three Exhibits, which are then finally utilized in a manner that could be a violation of the law because the effort to solicit money from the public, using those false and misleading statements, is finally executed in Exhibits #5, #6 and #7.

The law in question is the following:

817.06 Misleading advertisements prohibited.

"(1) No person, persons, association, copartnership, or institution shall, with intent to offer or sell or in anywise dispose of merchandise, securities, certificates, diplomas, documents, or other credentials purporting to reflect proficiency in any trade, skill, profession, credits for academic achievement, service or anything offered by such person, persons, association, copartnership, corporation, or institution directly or indirectly, to the public, for sale or distribution or issuance, or with intent to increase the consumption or use thereof, or with intent to induce the public in any manner to enter into any obligation relating thereto, or to acquire title thereto, or any interest therein, or ownership thereof, knowingly or intentionally make, publish, disseminate, circulate or place before the public, or cause, directly or indirectly, to be made, published, disseminated or circulated or placed before the public in this state in a newspaper or other publication or in the form of a book, notice, handbill, poster, bill, circular, pamphlet or letter or in any other way, an advertisement of any sort regarding such certificate, diploma, document, credential, academic credits, merchandise, security, service or anything so offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement which is untrue, deceptive, or misleading."

In the following account, of the activities in question, those portions of the law that may have been violated, will be placed in {} for a clear identification and assessment. Due to the complex and scientific nature of the information behind these activities, there will be no discussions explaining the scientific validity of any of them, beyond the statements of the principals themselves. In this regard, this report will only deal with matters of fact and facts that will be evidentiary on their face.

The activities and principals are as follows:

World Patent Marketing, (Principal #1) a corporation residing in Miami, Florida has engaged in activity that may be covered under the above mentioned statute, 817.06 "Misleading advertisements prohibited". Specifically, World Patent Marketing, under the apparent direction of CEO Scott J. Cooper (Principal #2) issued the following press releases, the purpose it was to establish the narrative for a fund raising effort for Ronald Mallett (Principal #3) based on nonexistent research and time machine development, to follow later.

EXHIBIT #1

Dr. Ronald Mallett, Famous "Time Machine" Professor, Joins World Patent Marketing Advisory Board
<https://worldpatentmarketing.net/ronald-mallett-2/>

The statements in question within are:

1. "Professor Ronald Mallett is on the verge of creating the first working "time machine.". {No person, persons, association, copartnership, or institution shall, with intent to offer or sell or in anywise dispose of merchandise, securities, certificates, diplomas, documents, or other credentials purporting to reflect proficiency in any trade, skill, profession, credits for academic achievement, service or anything offered by such person...}

In this case, World Patent Marketing is using the title of Ronald Mallett (Principal #3) as a professor, to sell the idea he is on the "verge of creating the first working time machine". At the time this release was issued (November 6, 2015) Ronald Mallett was not only not close to inventing anything, he had lost the race to build the first time machine two years earlier (see <https://www.prlog.org/12247224-marshall-barnes-wins-the-race-against-ronald-mallett-to-create-the-1st-time-machine.html>). Furthermore, within 10 days of the press release, PBS NewsHour published an article in which Mallett stated that, in regards to the concept of twisting time, via his approach, it would take "an enormous amount of energy. I mean a huge amount of energy, like stellar quantities,". That, on its face, precludes any conception that Mallett is on the verge of building any kind of time machine, let alone the first.

2. "And it is being taken very seriously by academic researchers around the world." {No person, persons, association, copartnership, or institution shall, with intent to offer or sell or in anywise dispose of merchandise, securities, certificates, diplomas, documents, or other credentials purporting to reflect proficiency in any trade, skill, profession, credits for academic achievement, service or anything offered by such person...}

In this case, the statement is false and misleading. By citing "academic researchers around the world" it gives the appearance that Mallett's theory is accepted by academic experts in the field of theoretical physics. The fact is, it is not. According to this video, Final Ron Mallett Time Traveler, (see <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ghPHiWt8xjc>), at 1:09 on the video counter the narrator states, "Professor Chandra Roychoudhuri has been working with Mallett but seems skeptical about the possibility of time travel...". So this is a scientist working with Mallett directly who isn't sure about Mallett's work!

According to Wikipedia.org (see https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ronald_Mallett under "Criticism") physicists Ken Olum and Allen Everett are noted for publishing objections to Mallett's theory for which he has failed to respond in full, J. Richard Gott is credited for pointing out another critical flaw which caused Mallett to withdraw a portion of his theory, and in a private conversation with author David Toomey, Marshall Barnes, the internationally noted research and development engineer and conceptual theorist, was told that Stephen Hawking and Kip Thorne thought, "Mallett's work is poor". Marshall subsequently emailed Thorne (knowing that Hawking rarely answers any emails) with a test to see if Thorne responded emotionally to a question about Mallett's theory Marshall sent the following email:

On Feb 6, 2013, at 1:02 PM,

Dear Professor Thorne:

I was wondering about your thoughts on Ronald Mallett's work on time travel issues, since that is an area in which you have some recognition. Do you feel there is any chance of his overcoming the energy requirements with his ring laser design, in order to get the proper gravitational effect that would result in warping time into closed time-like curves, even on a scale that would simply allow particles to travel backward to the moment his device becomes a time machine?

I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Marshall Barnes

2/6/13 at 5:03 PM

From:
Kip S. Thorne

No.

Furthermore, Marshall Barnes, Mallett's sole competition, wrote the definitive paper, destroying the validity of both his design, his understanding of both the design and the physics it would require and his ability to even comprehend the true nature of the subject at hand. Published at the pre-print site, Academia.edu, dated October 15th, 2015 as RING LASERS, CLOSED TIMELIKE CURVES, CAUSALITY VIOLATION AND THE TOTAL DESIGN FAILURE OF RONALD MALLETTS TIME MACHINE OF SPACE-TIME TWISTING BY LIGHT (see https://www.academia.edu/19662264/RING_LASERS_CLOSED_TIMELIKE_CURVES_CAUSALITY_VIOLATION_AND_THE_TOTAL_DESIGN_FAILURE_OF_RONALD_MALLETTS_TIME_MACHINE_OF_SPACE-TIME_TWISTING_BY_LIGHT) it is a devastating rebuke whose abstract reads:

"In this paper it will be proved conclusively that aside, from issues with meeting energy requirements demanded by Einstein's General Relativity and other issues to create a time machine using rotating ring lasers (topics already covered by Olum, Everett, Gott, et al) there are key and critical issues that will cause the failure of Ronald L. Mallett's time machine design, both in function and expectation of the effect, that it would cause in spacetime. These issues are part and parcel of Mallett's approach to time travel philosophically and thus not only dispel any notion of his design ever working, but also any notion that Ronald Mallett has anything more, than the most pedestrian conceptual understanding, to ever create a working time machine. With such respect, it is not possible, if left to his own devices, that Ronald Mallett will ever make a functioning time machine of any kind or description. Furthermore, the author knows and has discussed a number of related issues with Ronald Mallett, so this paper is not produced from a detached place of observation but with intimate knowledge of the subjects at hand."

In addition, these "academics from around the world" have never been identified by World Patent Marketing, Scott J. Cooper or Ronald Mallett. Later, (in Exhibit #4) establishing a pattern of behavior of deception in this area, evidence will be presented as to how World Patent Marketing created a deceptive portion of a video promo, that fraudulently infers that scientists from around the world support Mallett's time machine concept.

3. "One thing is for certain, Professor Ronald Mallett is the man to do it." {the same statute portion as previously cited}. On its face, in light of the evidence presented so far, this statement is a false and baseless.

4. "World Patent Marketing has taken an interest in the hotly contested race to create the first time machine, and have placed their bets on Ronald Mallett."

This statement is more evidentiary as opposed to being evidence of violations. It establishes, however, that World Patent Marketing and Scott J. Cooper knew about the competition between Marshall Barnes and Ronald Mallett and thus that Mallett had lost because there was no other hotly contested race to build a time machine in the world! In the meantime, Marshall Barnes had been presenting his machine, the Verdrehung Fan, which opens micro wormholes into which radio waves and infrared pulses disappear, across the country (see <https://www.prlog.org/12247224-marshall-barnes-wins-the-race-against-ronald-mallett-to-create-the-1st-time-machine.html> <https://www.prlog.org/12365180-new-scientist-article-reveals-data-that-supports-marshall-barnes-presentation-at-mays-isdc.html> <https://www.prlog.org/12591460-marshall-barnes-proves-he-has-the-first-time-machine-in-the-world-at-heroes-and-games.html#> <https://www.prlog.org/12592744-marshall-barnes-launches-the-worlds-first-time-travel-development-effort-on-ground-zero.html>) .

5. "This is incredibly exciting," said Cooper.... "I am thrilled to welcome Professor Ronald Mallett to our board, to help us take the field of physics to its most cutting edge."

This is again, an evidentiary statement showing that Cooper and Mallett are working together and that Cooper is using this relationship to create a false impression. In fact, Mallett is incapable of helping World Patent Marketing "take the field of physics to its most cutting edge" because Ronald Mallett has never done anything in the field of physics that was cutting edge. From his book, "Time Traveler: A Scientist's Personal Mission To Make Time Travel A Reality",

"As a theoretical physicist, I learned long ago that I did not have the aptitude for experimental work." (first sentence, last paragraph, page 165).

These press releases are important because they establish, by their own admission, the conspiracy between Scott J. Cooper and Ronald L. Mallett, because they both knew that key elements of the narrative they were promoting were false and without merit.

EXHIBIT #2 Press Release

Dr. Ronald Mallett, Famous "Time Machine" Physicist, Joins World Patent Marketing Advisory Board (November 9, 2015)
<http://www.prweb.com/releases/worldpatentmarketing/ronald-mallett/prweb13072182.htm>

1. "According to academic journals and reports, Mallett is on the verge of building the world's first working time machine." {No person, persons, association, copartnership, or institution shall, with intent to offer or sell or in anywise dispose of merchandise, securities, certificates, diplomas, documents, or other credentials purporting to reflect proficiency in any trade, skill, profession, credits for academic achievement, service or anything offered by such person...}

This statement is not only false, for reasons already presented, but includes a new, additional falsehood - the inclusion of "academic journals" into the narrative that Mallett is on the verge of building the world's first time machine. It is clear and obvious that the media has repeated his exact story for the longer than the last 10 years, but there is not one academic journal that has done the same, aside from the original piece in New Scientist magazine in 2002, which although, it is a science magazine, is not an academic journal that publishes peer reviewed papers. In fact, New Scientist refers to itself as "New Scientist Magazine" (see <https://www.newscientist.com/help/#faq26>). There no journal articles supporting Mallett's theory, just as there are no academic researchers "around the world" taking his research seriously.

2. "This is incredibly exciting," said Scott Cooper, CEO and Creative Director of World Patent Marketing... "There is so much going on in scientific research right now...and now theories that point to the real possibility of time travel, it feels like we are on the edge of a new frontier. I am thrilled to welcome Professor Ronald Mallett to our board, to help us take the field of physics to its most cutting edge." {No person, persons, association, copartnership, or institution shall, with intent to offer or sell or in anywise dispose of merchandise, securities, certificates, diplomas, documents, or other credentials purporting to reflect proficiency in any trade, skill, profession, credits for academic achievement, service or anything offered by such person...}

In no way possible is Ronald Mallett going to take World Patent Marketing to the "most cutting edge". Again, this statement was made in 2015 and he has not made one improvement, development or progress of any kind, thus establishing the pattern of behavior of baseless lies and false statements on the part of both parties, over the last two years. In addition, Mallett has even dropped the subject of time travel from his list of research interests on his official University of Connecticut profile page (see <http://physics.uconn.edu/ronald-mallett/> as opposed to the older <http://www.phys.uconn.edu/~mallett/main/main.htm> under "Primary Research Interests").

World Patent Marketing tweet

"Dr. Mallett will go back in time and possibly change the future
bit.ly/1HmHoTJ #ronaldmallett #timetravel #timemachine
<https://mobile.twitter.com/WorldPatentMKTG/status/664730605255462912?p=v>

1. This statement is an out and out lie. "Will go back in time" is a statement that not even Mallett has ever made!

2. The tweet has a link to an article that appears to be from around from 2007, and so is entirely outdated - yet it doesn't even make that claim that the World Patent Marketing tweet does. This is an important fact to keep in mind - There is a history on Mallett's part and the media, of making claims that are baseless, twisting facts and making them up, prior to Mallett becoming involved with World Patent Marketing. It could be argued that Scott J. Cooper and World Patent Marketing, saw this pattern of behavior, clearly endorsed and contributed to by Ronald Mallett, and decided to continue it. World Patent Marketing and Scott J. Cooper's decision to follow suit, thus becomes evidence of conspiracy to then later violate 817.06 by continuing that pattern of behavior together in an effort to solicit funds from the public.

EXHIBIT #4.

Florida Registration of Ronald Mallett as a party to Time Travel Technologies, LLC

1. Both <https://www.corporationwiki.com/p/2miryz/ronald-mallett> and <https://www.corporationwiki.com/p/2mirx4/time-travel-technologies-llc> show Ronald Mallett as a "manager" or "principal", which indicates that Ronald Mallett is more than a mere beneficiary of any funds raised by this entity and has a more integral role in the company. It should also be noted that the company is listed as "inactive" yet, in Exhibits #5 they have just recently launched the selling of a "theoretical commodity", the Time Travel X, for $799 per unit.

<http://search.sunbiz.org/Inquiry/CorporationSearch/SearchResultDetail?inquiryType=DocumentNumber&aggregateId=flal-115000195662-5c47890e-0700-477c-b06a-eeebd9ddd281&directionType=Initial&searchNameOrder=TIMETRAVELTECHNOLOGIES%20L150001956620&searchTerm=L15000195662>

In addition, this is the link to the Electronic Articles of Organization for Florida Limited Liability Company under File Number L15000195662 showing the date of November 19, 2015, ten days after their first announcement (see <http://search.sunbiz.org/Inquiry/CorporationSearch/ConvertTiffToPDF?storagePath=COR%5C2015%5C1124%5C40285854.tif&documentNumber=L15000195662>). Under Article III, Other provisions, if any: it states, "Time Travel". Although Scott Cooper indicated at the bottom of the document, that he understood that the filing of an annual report was required between January 1st and May 1st of the following year, and every year there after, records indicate that he failed to do so, rendering the "Inactive" determination on the account to date.

EXHIBIT #5

Introduction of Funding Instrument Under False Pretenses {an advertisement of any sort regarding such certificate, diploma, document, credential, academic credits, merchandise, security, service or anything so offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement which is untrue, deceptive, or misleading}

On March 15, 2016, Scott J. Cooper issued the following video (see <https://vimeo.com/176076385>) with the following misleading and false statements in it (see video counter markers per statement). After an introduction, hyping the possibilities of time travel, the video then states:

1. Beginning at 1:12 on the video counter - "World-renowned physicist, author and scholar Dr. Ronald Mallett, believes time travel is possible, perhaps in the next decade." That is a demonstrable lie. Remember, the year before, November 2015, Mallett was quoted by the PBS NewsHour that to twist time would require "stellar quantities" of energy. Because this video is not promoting the concept of time travel in general - by any other source, this statement can not be interpreted as meaning anything else but time travel through the efforts of Ronald L. Mallett himself. Furthermore, in an article published by Yahoo! News, written by two months later, This Scientist Is Building A Real Time Machine - And Thinks It Will Work, it states, "Mallett believes physical time travel is impossible"(see <https://www.yahoo.com/news/this-scientist-is-building-a-real-time-machine-100204594.html>). The statements that follow substantiate this perspective as they all refer to Mallett, leading up to the next false statement -

2. Beginning at 1:33, "His program, Space-Time Twisting By Light (STL) Project...has gained support from scientists..." This statement is false and unsubstantiated. Instead of gaining support, the disagreement with it has mounted, now including J.R. Gott, Michio Kaku, Ken Olum, Allen Everett, Stephen Hawking, Kip Thorne and Marshall Barnes. Barnes even wrote the most devastating paper attacking the design of Mallett's idea from an engineering and conceptual point of view prior to Mallett's PBS NewsHour confession, once again, predating the video in question by more than a year. If the viewer is meant to be misled into thinking, Mallett has a breakthrough, by the false statement of support of the science community, in the next visual it leaves no doubt -

3. Beginning at 1:42 an ABC news report by Amanda Onion, and dated March 6, appears on the screen with the statement "...and the news media". While nothing in the world can be more true than the fact that Mallett has received unprecedented news coverage over more than the last 10 years - and having accomplished nothing during said time period, none of those news reports is shown. In fact, the one that appears on the screen, from ABC News with the heading, "Scientists Explain Why Time Travel Is Possible" is in fact not about

Mallett nor how scientists support him. The article can be found here (see <http://abcnews.go.com/Technology/story?id=98062&page=1>) and never mentions Mallett nor his theories. So it is clear that World Patent Marketing placed that article there to support the false statement that Mallett's idea "has gained support from scientists" by causing it to be seen by the unwary who may then assume that the time travel theory being referred to by "scientists" is in fact, Mallett's.

4. Beginning at 2:16, "World Patent Marketing has partnered with Dr. Ronald Mallett...to make his vision a reality." That statement may be true in principle, but what that vision is, is in doubt. Is it time travel? How could that be? Again, the PBS NewsHour admission that predates this video, makes the statement impossible to fulfill and thus false. In fact, it has now become apparent that since Mallett knows he can't twist time, that he's now settling on trying to warp space to create faster communications (see <https://worldpatentmarketing.net/ronald-mallett/>). Since that is not part of the advertisements in question, that matter will be set aside. In addition to that, once again fitting the pattern of misrepresentations and lies on the part of Ronald Mallett, in the PBS NewHour article, previously mentioned, It states,

"However, twisting space may serve as the foundation for a warp drive."

Nowhere, in any literature on the subject does such an idea exist, since a warp drive must contract space as it move through it - not twist it. Mallett, in fact, was using that concept to make his work appear to still be relevant now that he had to admit the time travel aspect was falling apart. This proves that Mallett only had that one initial idea, and now that it has appeared to be flawed, he has none other and appears incapable of any other. Once again, making the statement on the part of Scott Cooper that Mallett could take his company to the cutting edge of physics, ridiculous on its face.

5. Beginning at 2:35, "Time Travel Technologies gives you the opportunity...to fund research that will help make time travel possible...and change the future." This statement is false because, as stated, Mallett doesn't think physical time travel is possible, but that is what is implied all throughout the video promo. There is also nothing in Ronald Mallett's research, which has not gone any further than it was in 2007 or earlier, that will make time travel possible. Remember, the advancements so far in time travel are already being made by his sole and chief competitor, Marshall Barnes, R&D Eng. They include a special report to select members of Congress (now a book) on time travel and its implications, which resolved all of the related theoretical issues of often cited (see <http://www.blurb.com/b/5622324-paradox-lost-the-public-edition>), the creation of the first time machine on a particle level, the Verdrehung Fan, in 2012 (see <https://www.prlog.org/12365180-new-scientist-article-reveals-data-that-support-s-marshall-barnes-presentation-at-mays-isdc.html>), which opens micro wormholes that can theoretically be enlarged and stabilized with enough power and the device scaled-up in size, the development in progress of a machine based on Nikola Tesla's design for a wall of light and intelligent energy as well as his latest breakthrough - a physical experiment using lasers that has proved that parallel universes exist and would be the solution to any attempt at time travel to the past (see <https://www.prlog.org/12601672-simulation-theory-gets-redone-by-research-of-marshall-barnes-rd-eng.html>).

This doesn't include a number of research papers over the years that Marshall has written, while Ronald Mallett hasn't written one dealing with time travel physics or theory. Mallett has nothing but his one idea which he has now admitted, won't get the job done. There is no practical research that he has upon which to draw from, and to tell people that investing $799 will somehow fund time travel research is in principle, a despicable and deliberate fraud, because Mallett has admitted that it will take millions to even come close to really testing his idea (see <https://www.prlog.org/12479498-ronald-mallett-admits-time-machine-to-cost-ms-making-marshall-barnes-undisputed-time-travel-expert.html>), that after at least $300,000 is spent on a feasibility study, which if his theory is a good as is advertised, the feasibility study shouldn't be needed.

This same video has been put on Youtube (see https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2WhJbolcVhI&index=5&list=PL1Z1xRkMpo-oRHd7g_-uk8sIN62xkVaBM) by World Patent Marketing

EXHIBIT #6.

Statements by Ronald L. Mallett promoting violations of 817.06

1. Via Twitter, "Thanks for posting the World Patent Marketing video" (see <https://mobile.twitter.com/RLMallett/status/751455451880062976?p=v>)

The World Patent Marketing video in question is the one cited in Exhibit #5. This proves that Ronald Mallett knew about efforts to promote said video which contained false and misleading statements.

2. Via Twitter "@iosmacnstuff @DOCNYCfest for funding update see: sfweekly.com/news/feature/t..." (see <https://mobile.twitter.com/search?q=%40iosmacnstuff+%40DOCNYCfest+for+funding+update+see&s=typd&x=15&y=7>)

This is Ronald L. Mallett promoting a link to a December 21, 2016 San Francisco Weekly article that has a link to the TimeTravelX.com marketing web site, proving Mallett's direct involvement in the promotion of advertising containing false and misleading statements in violation of 817.06.

EXHIBIT #7.

The web site <https://worldpatentmarketing.com/product/time-travel-x/> is the new and functioning site selling the "theoretical commodity", Time Travel X for $799. {"an advertisement of any sort regarding such certificate, diploma, document, credential, academic credits, merchandise, security, service or anything so offered to the public, which advertisement contains any assertion, representation or statement which is untrue, deceptive, or misleading"}

1. "JOIN DR. RONALD MALLETT'S QUEST

Purchase Time Travel X Virtual Membership Units. This purchase will be governed under the Time Travel X End User Licensing Agreement (EULA).

Time Travel Technologies grew out of a desire to provide funding for World Patent Marketing Advisory Board Member, Dr. Ronald Mallet. Dr. Mallet is a theoretical physics professor at the University of Connecticut who has been developing a 'time machine.' Don't get too wildly excited, his model won't be sending humans back to the Jurassic any time soon".

The advertisement states that "Dr. Mallett is a theoretical physicist at the University of Connecticut who has been developing a time machine." That is a lie. He has not been developing a time machine. As stated earlier, he has given up and described to PBS NewsHour that it would take enormous amounts of energy to twist time. Also, this is the first time that any acknowledgment of the limitations of Mallett's idea have been mentioned.

"Mallet's time machine is designed to test a hypothesis that arises from Einstein's General Theory of Relativity, which predicts time loops for atomic particles. Mallet intends to send the subatomic particles, neutrinos, forward in time."

This statement is both inaccurate and confusing. Notice it says that "Mallett intends to send the subatomic particles, neutrinos, forward in time." They are in fact neutrons not neutrinos and he wants to send them to the past, not future.

"Scott Cooper, CEO and Creative Director of World Patent Marketing, proposed creating a theoretical commodity exchange tied to the price of Bitcoin, that would act as alternative currency and provide funding for Dr. Mallet's project. Thus Time Travel Technologies came into being. Soon, you will be able to buy and sell 'minutes' on the exchange".

Regardless of how World Patent Marketing structures it, the Time Travel X commodity only has a value as it is perceived as being connected to the research of Ronald Mallett and his prospects of creating a time travel breakthrough. If that was not the case, people would just buy Bitcoins.

Remember, in the video promo at 2:35 on the counter, it states, "Time Travel Technologies gives you the opportunity...to fund research that will make time travel possible...and change the future." and that is a lie. At 2:57 in the same video, it states, "Time Travel Technology accepts Bitcoin as payment into travel research." Finally, beginning at 3:27 it states, "Create your own future..And help make science fiction science fact."

Once it becomes apparent that it is impossible for Ronald Mallett to do anything that he has been advertised for, the value of the Time Travel X commodity will collapse because no one else will want to fund him. After all, that is the advertised purpose of the Time Travel X commodity - to fund Mallett's time travel developments.

To be sure there is no misunderstanding, in as far as the talents and abilities in the field of time travel research, as promoted by the media are untrue, here is a segment from the beginning of Mallett's career as a time travel fraud, a documentary called, "The World's First Time Machine (of course he didn't actually have one...)." https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hbFxncaJO_Y

Beginning at 1:04 Then at 2:58 Mallett states, "As far as I'm concerned, the paradoxes that people talk about are only going to be resolved after we build the first time machine then we will know whether or not free will enters into it, whether there's multiple universes, or whether the universe is determined. That's going to have to be understood, experimentally".

However, Marshall Barnes not only proved that parallel universes would resolve the paradox issue, he did so without needing a time machine, and proved it with a physical experiment derived from a proposal first posited by German astrophysicist, Rainer Plaga, which has been filmed and analyzed. (see <https://www.prlog.org/12613870-new-similar-experiments-dramatically-achieve-rainer-plaga-suggestion-to-prove-parallel-universes.html>)

There is no comparison between Mallett and Marshall. Mallett has been trading on his name and the media's willingness to hype his personal story, while Marshall has been amassing a broad and significant area of breakthroughs and projects, which he is now about to unleash on the world.

Once it becomes widely known that Mallett has no such viable research potential, and that all of the development action and breakthroughs are happening with Marshall Barnes, that will be the end of the Time Travel X commodity. Those who have already purchased it, under the blatant and misleading promotions that have been utilized, may lose all of their money.

Conclusion

These are the facts from which it can be determined by the State of Florida if there have been violations of 817.06 and what actions should be taken. If you have any questions, contact Marshall Barnes at 4th.d@engineer.com who was instrumental in assembling this document, knows Ronald L. Mallett personally, can attest to the accuracy of any further details, and is willing to testify in court, if need be, as an expert witness.

Sincerely,

David Gap

My name is Gwendolyn Anne Artman, last year I gave a Miami Beach, Florida company; 24k to patent and market a product. The product is called the "Journey Travel Band". With a couple months, the stop communication with me, with the exception of advertisements via email. I have attempted to contact them through emails and phone calls and currently, they state, my product manager Milena Roberts is not taking calls or out of the office.

My husband, who is a retired veteran allowed me to use our savings for a product we still believe will benefit this country, including globally. My fear of course, they have taken my money and never intended to file the patent. I have made numerous phone calls and they don't respond. I need help. How do I file a complaint and hopefully my patent was filed, if not; my funds returned? I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Mr. Arrington:

I am writing to you on behalf of World Patent Marketing ("WPM"). This is a cease and desist letter, directing you to stop your defamation and libel of the company on Facebook and/or other forms of media. Should you continue, we will have to seek legal action against you for claims that include breach of contract, extortion, defamation, and tortuous interference.

Your conduct will not be tolerated. If within the next 72 hours you do not cease your improper and defamatory behavior by removing all public defamatory statements, we will initiate a lawsuit against you. Once we begin the process of preparing a complaint, we will also seek reimbursement of the corresponding attorney's fees regardless if this matter is ultimately settled.

I have copied our outside legal counsel, Eric Creizman of Creizman LLC on this email.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Questions/Comments:

I have been working with Nelson Santos since August on a patent and had finally received all the information on it in November 2014. Now talking with him again on December 11, 2014, he claims that I would have to send another $8500.00 to do another patent search plus the design patent with uspto. When asked for their patent license number to verify they are a legal patent company, I was denied the number. My question is what can I do to get my money back plus interest due to fraud, emotional stress (Someone else with my design) and financial emotions. I have e-mails and wrote down date's upon discussion on the phone with him and their company which contains 3-4 more people in this company.

Agreement For Services

All clients have a three (3) calendar day right for rescission from the signature date of the agreement to request a refund or cancellation. World Patent Marketing is not a law firm and does not provide legal advice. The inventor understands that all patent searches are provided by registered patent attorneys and/or agents.

Over the past five years, World Patent Marketing has not contracted with any customers or evaluated any inventions for commercial potential. World Patent Market is not an Invention Promotion Company. We are a patent assistance organization; a Licensor, Manufacturer, and Distributor of Patented Products.

Instead we provide the client with a Global Invention Royalty Analysis. This Analysis includes a Global Patent Search and Opinion, the InventBoost Study to assist in evaluating your idea, Product Branding, Concept Design, and an Industry Demographics Report, SIC and NAIC codings.

The purpose of the Global Invention Royalty Analysis is to enable the inventor to professionally prepare and present their invention so that it will get the exposure and support it needs. You never get a second chance to make a first impression. Prematurely presenting an invention will lower your chance of success. No clients have received a net financial profit or a licensing agreement solely as a direct result of obtaining a Global Invention Royalty Analysis through World Patent Marketing. Indeed, this is only one piece of the puzzle. Inventors who intend to proceed with a patent application must also present a convincing case for their idea.

World Patent Marketing professionals are seasoned specialists in their fields, who confidentially offer their expertise to our global clientele of inventors. For the last ten years, none of our officers have been affiliated with or employed by what is called an "invention promotion company." All employees and officers of World Patent Marketing are required to sign an ethics and confidentiality agreement for your protection.

By signing this form, you authorize the company named on this form to debit the bank account or credit card indicated in this form, for the noted amount on today's date. This payment is for the goods and services noted on the payment form. You understand that returns, refunds, and cancellations are not permitted, however exceptions may be made on a case-by-case basis. You understand that because this is an electronic transaction, these funds may be withdrawn from your account as soon as the above noted transaction date. In the case of an ACH Transaction being rejected for Non Sufficient Funds (NSF) you understand that the company named on the form may at its discretion attempt to process the charge again within 30 days.

You acknowledge that the origination of ACH transactions to your account must comply with the provisions of U.S. law. You certify that you are an authorized user of this credit card or bank account, and that you will not dispute the payment with your Credit Card Company or Bank, so long as the transaction corresponds to the terms indicated in this form.

Grounds for this matter:

I gave them 13,000.00 on a patent that they claimed I could get my money back if I changed my mind. I decided due to family illness and personal matters to not pursue this patent. I have been threatened by Scott Cooper to put me in jail for harassing them for my money back and this has been going on for over a year now with me and his attorney threatening to file charges against me now. I need this money back as it was my lifes savings.

Issue(s) to be resolved

Type of problem(s)

Description

Other

I changed my mind and was told I could during the process. I needed the money back and now am in huge financial problem due to this.
